

U. S. TO SEEK DRUG AGREEMENT

Will Send Delegation to League of Nations Meeting at Geneva to Ask That World Plan Be Made To Curb Smugglers.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 2.—Negotiations of a world agreement to curb the production and manufacture of narcotic drugs will be proposed and undertaken by the United States at Geneva this month, it was learned today.

The advisory committee of the League of Nations on the narcotic question will meet in Geneva on May 24. An American delegation will attend in a "consultative capacity" and will, it is understood, formally broach the subject of an international convention, such as was proposed by the Porter resolution enacted by the last Congress.

Secretary of State Hughes has highly commended the Porter resolution and declared "it should make the subject of an international convention." In a communication dispatched to the Dutch government on narcotic control, the American position on dope control was thus outlined:

"The principal difficulty facing the administration of the narcotic laws has been the persistent smuggling of all forms of narcotics from foreign countries. It is the opinion of those familiar with the administration of the laws that most of the narcotics surreptitiously sold in the United States are smuggled. The control of the manufacture and sale within the United States appears to be very effective and it is thought there is very little leakage from the legitimate to the illegitimate channels of distribution. There is no doubt, however, that large quantities of narcotics are smuggled into the country."

This situation, state department officials feel, only can be rectified by an international treaty drastically curtailing the growth of the poppy.

Dope leaking into the illicit traffic, it is believed, originates largely from the poppy fields of India in which the British government holds a monopoly, and from points of Anatolia, Turkey and Persia in which Great Britain is also powerful.

Great care is being exercised by Secretary Hughes in the selection of delegates to represent the United States in Geneva. In response to inquiries today it was said a choice had not yet been made. Persistent reports, however, are that Dr. Rupert Blue, who represented the United States at the meeting of the advisory committee last February, Bishop Charles E. Brent of New York, who participated in The Hague opium conference, and Edwin L. Neville, of the Far Eastern division of the state department, will comprise the delegation.

These men are thoroughly familiar with all phases of the drug menace. Dr. Blue, following last February's meeting, filed with the department a detailed report of the proceedings of the advisory committee, which later was held to be confidential and withheld from the press. This report, it is understood, was of a startling nature.

LEWIS NOW P. M. AT SAUGERTIES

Edward J. Lewis has been appointed acting postmaster at Saugerties and on Tuesday assumed his duties. The appointment having been made during the recess of the Senate is temporary but it is expected that it will be made permanent.

Mr. Lewis for many years was engaged in the cigar manufacturing business at Saugerties, being a member of the well known firm of E. J. & F. T. Lewis, the business in recent years having been conducted by his brother, Frederick T. Lewis. For several years Mr. Lewis was manager of the American Cigar Company's big factory at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, this city.

During previous Republican administrations, Mr. Lewis served as postmaster at Saugerties for nine years and is thoroughly familiar with the duties and work of the office. For several years he has been a special examiner for the state comptroller's office, in charge of the examination of stock transfer records of corporations in New York city, and each year supervised the engraving, printing and issuance of bonds of the state.

BRITISH MAY APPEAL DRY SHIP DECISION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 2.—Legal experts of the British admiralty are understood to have advised the British government today to appeal to the international court against the decision of the supreme court at Washington that no ship may take liquor into an American port.

Admiralty officials hold that a ship flying the British flag is "British territory" and that American agents have no right to attempt to enforce the prohibition law upon any such vessel.

Both the foreign office and the British steamship companies are delaying any action regarding the supreme court decision pending receipt of the text here.

Just Quarter Century Ago Old Fourteenth Separate Company Left Kingston for Camp Black Under Dripping Skies—Celebrating Event Today in Albany.

This morning about thirty members of the old Fourteenth Separate Company left the state armory in automobiles to attend the reunion of the First Regiment, of which they were a unit, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their departure for the Spanish-American war.

The Freeman of Monday, May 2, 1898, under the big typed heading: "Good-bye, Fourteenth!" said: "Under dripping skies, amid the ringing of bells, the blowing of whistles, and the cheers of ten thousand people, the Fourteenth Separate Company marched out of the armory this morning to face the unknown future. If Kingston never before showed her appreciation of the company she made up for it this morning."

"At daybreak the members of the Fourteenth began to gather at the armory and by 7 o'clock every man was at his place. The knapsacks lay on the floor in the same position that they were left last night and after the assembly had been beaten on their drums, the men placed them on their backs and stood at attention."

Then, opportunity was afforded the friends of the soldiers to bid farewell, and until 8 o'clock a crowd of from eight to ten thousand flocked around them. Farewells, tender and loving, were said by the soldiers, mothers, sisters, brothers, sweethearts and friends. Tears of sorrow were shed by old and young. The sadness was infectious and at times oppressive. Past differences were forgotten and all united in a hearty Godspeed to the boys and a silent prayer for their safety went up from every heart. It was no time for levity and the people, realizing that fact, spoke in tones intended only for the ones to whom they were addressed.

"At 8 o'clock the crowd was pressed back to the walls in order to make room for the organizations which were to accompany the soldiers to the ferry, a prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles Mercer Hall, the command was given to move and the boys marched out into the open air and down Broadway."

"The multitude recovered its spirits and with cheer after cheer saluted 'our boys,' the whistles on the near by factories blew their loudest, the church bells rang out and above all and louder than all the rest, the immense fire bell at the city hall solemnly tolled fourteen."

"Then once more the crowd recovered itself, the band struck up, flags, banners and hats were waved and the Fourteenth Separate Company commenced its farewell march to Rondout."

"The account in The Freeman then gave the formation of the parade, and said that from the armory, to the city hall the street was literally blocked with people so that the electric cars could not pass and all traffic on Broadway had to be suspended for time, until the soldiers and their fireman escort had passed down the line."

As the ferry Transport steamed out of Rondout creek with bands playing the docks on both sides of the creek were lined with people. Many tugs of the Cornell Line with steam up ready to follow the Transport across the Hudson, lay alongside the docks, and as the ferry steamed past fell in behind and saluted with whistles all the way across the river.

MANY BUYING HORSES FOR USE THIS SUMMER

The sales stables of Elmer Paden on Broadway near Franklin street always a busy place on Tuesdays, was doubly busy on Tuesday of this week, there being a large number of men attending the auction to buy horses which are in big demand in the spring of the year for use on farms and by peddlers and others who use horses from now on until winter comes. Many owners sell their horses late in the fall as it does not pay them to winter over their steeds. The sale at Paden's was continued at Paden's horse mart Tuesday evening until after 8 o'clock.

Locomotives Soil Girls' Clothes; Council Will Try To Stop It

Alderman Buchholz of the Tenth ward Tuesday evening introduced a resolution at the regular monthly meeting of the common council requesting the New York Central to stop parking engines on Greenkill avenue.

In explaining his resolution the alderman stated that he had received a number of complaints from girls who had informed him that their clothing had been soiled by the soot from the parked engines. There are a number of girls employed in industrial plants who have to walk through Greenkill avenue to reach their work. The other morning two girls called at his home to complain of the soiled clothing. Their clothing was so covered with soot from the engines that they had to return home and change their clothes before reporting for work.

The resolution was referred to the railroad committee to take the matter up with the New York Central.

Alderman Buchholz also introduced a resolution that the railroad provide a crossing twenty feet from the switch near Sterling street so that traffic could cross. That also was referred to the railroad committee.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

MUST LOSE GOLD, ASSERTS GEPHART

As Europe Acquires It International Trade Will Be Restored—Other Artificial Barriers Will Be Broken Down.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Orleans, La., May 2.—Nothing can further America's international trade more than the loss of a considerable portion of its present gold supply, W. F. Gephart, of the First National Bank of St. Louis, declared in an address here today before the tenth national foreign trade convention.

"The United States should lose this gold in good time and season and gradually," said Gephart. "In due time it undoubtedly will move to other nations, especially those of Europe and will help restore their currency."

"Fundamental conditions which lead to the furtherance of international trade will thus be brought about."

Today, in Europe, Gephart said, the channels of trade are dammed up by all kinds of obstructions. Among these, he asserted, are racial antipathies, which have existed for centuries.

International trade, he declared, will necessarily be restricted if the nations of the world, including our own, "are going to continue to be warring national states."

Trade barriers and all sorts of artificial restrictions have been erected by the new European states, he said. The world shall come to learn, he added, that unnecessary barriers to the movement of goods between peoples brings a larger final loss than gain.

"The difficulties today," he declared, "are chiefly political in character and not economic. Men want goods in greater volume and in greater variety than at any time in history. In good time and season fundamental forces will assert themselves and destroy the artificial barriers."

TRILBY WAS AMONG THE MISSING

But She and Her Pals Were Practically The Only Famous French Characters Absent From Latin Quarter Fete.

"Gay Paree" last night and Kingston this morning surely is "going some," even in these days of aeroplanes and flying machines. Even the hardened globe-trotters of Kingston and vicinity had their breath taken away when they stepped into the armory Tuesday evening at the Latin Quarter Fete, for suddenly they found themselves, at night, viewing a brilliant spectacle in a street in the Latin Quarter itself.

They rubbed their eyes, for as they looked down the long thoroughfare they saw at the end a pretty French villa and tiny hotel, a bit of bridge across the Seine. Along the street were set out tiny tables where were seated a picturesque colorful throng of people. Artistic posters (the work of Miss Haysradt) adorned the walls of the houses. On one side of the street one looked through tall branching trees into a garden beyond—the "Tuleries," of course, where Zita's orchestra discoursed sweet and beguiling music. Penants of the French tri-color were hung in profusion along the balcony and branches of the trees evergreen over the lights gave the sense of the real out-of-doors. A beautiful American flag on standard stood at the entrance to the gardens.

Early in the evening the crowd began to gather, both those in true Latin quarter garb and those in street dress to watch the May Day revel.

At last all was ready for the fascinating procession, and the notable guests, judges, P. J. R. Clarke, Howard Chipp, John D. Schoonmaker, Charles H. De La Vergne, Samuel D. Drake, Admiral Higginson and Everett Fowler, took their places to inspect and award the five prizes.

The heat of the drum was heard as Roger Scott in full uniform of the Paris drummer boy appeared to clear the way for the pageant. Then they came: historic personages, French peasants, Spanish and Turkish and Old Colonial men and women, and many others, led by Sweet Joan of Arc, bearing the sword given her in her vision of saving France. Directly after came a gay cavalier and a plumed little French milliner with her jaunty bandbox (Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kogler).

There was Madame—just returned from the flower gardens with her arms full of flowers and accompanied by a most gallant little gentleman carrying for her a basket of posies. Mrs. Francis J. Higginson and Master Campbell Staples; Spanish ladies with high black combs and beautiful lace mantillas; French peasants from Alsace-Lorraine and Breton, conspicuous among them being the Misses Anna and Lillian Bonstedt; a French Breton garden peasant in every-day costume, including sabots, and her companion, wreathing their gaily awninged cart full of flowers, nosegays and fresh vegetables which were later sold for the good of the cause, the presiding genies being most appropriately, Mrs. Williams Carter, the owner of the cart, and Miss Dorothy Schoonmaker.

Miss Sarah Horton was there, and the incarnation of France admirably impersonated in costume by Miss Benah Smith; Ambassador Charles A. Warren had his manly chest almost covered with dazzling medals, while Mrs. Warren was lovely in rich Turkish costume. Pierrot (Rodney R. Osterhout) was accompanied by two charming Pierrettes, Mrs. Osterhout and Mrs. Everett Fowler. Brittany peasants, mingled with American friends and bonneted "Friends."

"Sandy" but without his bagpipes (William A. Warren) escorted a gay gypsy maiden, (Mrs. Warren) and it may seem incredible, but on old King Tut, Walter H. Osterhout, was there with his fantastically garbed "Lady." A spice of naughtiness was added to the picture by Mephitis (John Carlson of Woodstock), who came brinking—not Marguerite, as might have been supposed, but just like his Satanic master a fair Turkish lady (Mrs. Carlson).

The hand-organ man, who played his little organ as he processed, is deserving of special mention (Nelson Smith, Sr.). A wonderful Spanish lady of high degree as well as comb was Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, while David Burgevin was a dashing brigand and Mrs. Burgevin a lady from the Orient, with its rich ornamentation.

Then there were snucked and Tam-O-Shanter artists, adding their bit to the vivid moving picture. Nor does this description cover nearly all of the charming people attending the fete, contributing greatly to the kaleidoscopic pleasure. No wonder the judges had a difficult task, which they fulfilled admirably.

Captain Everett Fowler acted as the human megaphone—thus kindly making use of his past Armenian experiences along similar lines—in announcing the prizes, which were awarded by Miss Horton as follows (the prizes themselves being $3 gold pieces):

First prize for individual or group best representing French history or action, to Joan of Arc, Miss Conlith Caswell.

Second prize for best Latin Quarter type, to an Alsatian peasant girl, Miss Anna Bonstedt.

Third prize, for best French peasant type, Mrs. Williams Carter.

Fourth prize, to best costume gotten-up at least expense, Nelson

VON HINDENBURG YEARS TO FIGHT AGAINST FRANCE AGAIN

"We Will Get Revenge if it Takes a Hundred Years," Says Former Commander-in-Chief of the German Armies, who is Sure That "History Repeats Itself."

(Copyright 1923 by International News Service.)
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Hanover, Germany, May 2.—We will get revenge if it takes a hundred years. History repeats itself. What I wish more than anything else in the world is that I might again take up arms against France."

This declaration was made today by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, commander in chief of the German armies in war time, in a long, frank talk with Captain D. B. McMahon of the United States army in the field marshal's home here.

McMahon, whose home is in Indianapolis, Ind., has had charge of the last detachment of the American Army of Occupation which is leaving Bremen for home on the liner George Washington. Incidentally, this is the last handful of doughboys who remained behind for "clean up work" in the Coblenz area. With the departure of these soldiers the United States flag is now literally "out of Europe." The soldiers will travel home on the same ship used by former President Woodrow Wilson when he came to the Paris peace conference.

Captain McMahon, being commander of the tail end of the American adventure in Europe, which won the greatest war in the world's history, visited Hindenburg enroute from Coblenz to Bremen. He was received most cordially by the German veteran.

It was purely a personal visit, McMahon being in civilian dress. Nor did McMahon know that his talk would be published when he took the remarkable talk with the German military chief.

However, Hindenburg's remarks upon this historic occasion of saying farewell to the last representative of the American army were so interesting and important that the International News Service correspondent felt it was a duty to reveal the statements to the American people. Field Marshal Hindenburg's permission was asked and obtained.

The German veteran seemed greatly interested in American national life.

"What I admire especially," he went on, "is the splendid national feeling in America, the patriotic pride of Americans who teach patriotism in the cradle in the schools. School children in America salute their flag and they inherently revere it. Each American citizen feels that the country is as much a part of him as he is a part of the country."

Hindenburg looked through the window of his study, a wistful expression in his deep set eyes. He added in a melancholy strain, "If only Germany could hold and cultivate such a splendid national feeling as exists in the United States."

Soon the talk turned to the possibility of future wars. McMahon felt the impression that Hindenburg believes that future wars are inevitable. When the American asked regarding the use of airplanes in future conflicts the German field marshal responded:

"Of course air forces will be used much more in the future than in the past."

Hindenburg added with evident pride of an adherent of the old school of soldiering:

"But infantry will remain the queen of the battle. Air forces cannot bludge in the air nor can the air hold railway lines. Air forces cannot occupy towns or strategic points. The forces on the ground remain the chief factor."

The German officer added the opinion that cavalry is becoming more and more a sort of mounted infantry.

After a talk of about 50 minutes Hindenburg heartily shook McMahon by the hand. He accentuated each word with an energetic nod of the head as he explained:

"Americans fought well. When the fighting was over they went ahead with the business of occupation in a business-like way without pall, hatred or revenge. That is the work of good soldiers. The good soldier is the good warrior who throws himself enthusiastically into a fight with every fibre stretched. Then he forgets and he does not kick his enemy after he gets him down. That which is going on in the Ruhr and the Rhineland today is just the opposite. It is sowing the seeds of hatred which bound to last throughout at least another generation."

IRELAND GROWS LESS TURBULENT

Congrave to Reply to De Valera Peace Offer Tonight—Railroads Nearly All Running and Securities Rise.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dublin, May 2.—Although the Free State government did not accept Eamon De Valera's armistice and peace proposals, there were indications today that normalcy is returning to Ireland.

The Free State government announced that all railroads were being operated under normal conditions with two minor exceptions.

For months the Republican irregulars attempted to hamper the Dublin government by tearing up railways, wrecking trains and dynamiting bridges. A number of Republican irregular prisoners were sentenced to death and executed for impeding the lives of passengers on trains.

The Freeman's Journal pointed out today that the price of Irish securities is moving upward. Insurance against business loss through violence is improving as disorders die out.

President William T. Cosgrave is to make a speech in the Dail Eireann tonight, and it is believed that he will reply to the peace proposals of De Valera.

Mary MacSwiney, who has been on a hunger strike for a month, has been released from jail.

EVERS MAY PLAY HERE SATURDAY

Although neither the Schenectady K. of C. management or the Colonial management are as yet prepared to make any definite announcement, it is expected that the famous Johnny Evers will be with the Schenectady K. of C. team on Saturday of this week. It is not known whether or not Evers will play if he does come, but he at least will direct the Knights from the coaching lines.

As most baseball fans know, Evers was the star short stop for both the Chicago and Boston National League teams for a number of years. He was also coach of the New York Giants for a time. He is expected to receive an appointment as member of the New York State Racing Commission within a short period of time.

The Schenectady team will play the Poughkeepsie Red Sox on Sunday.

Smith, Jr., as gentleman of American Colonial days.

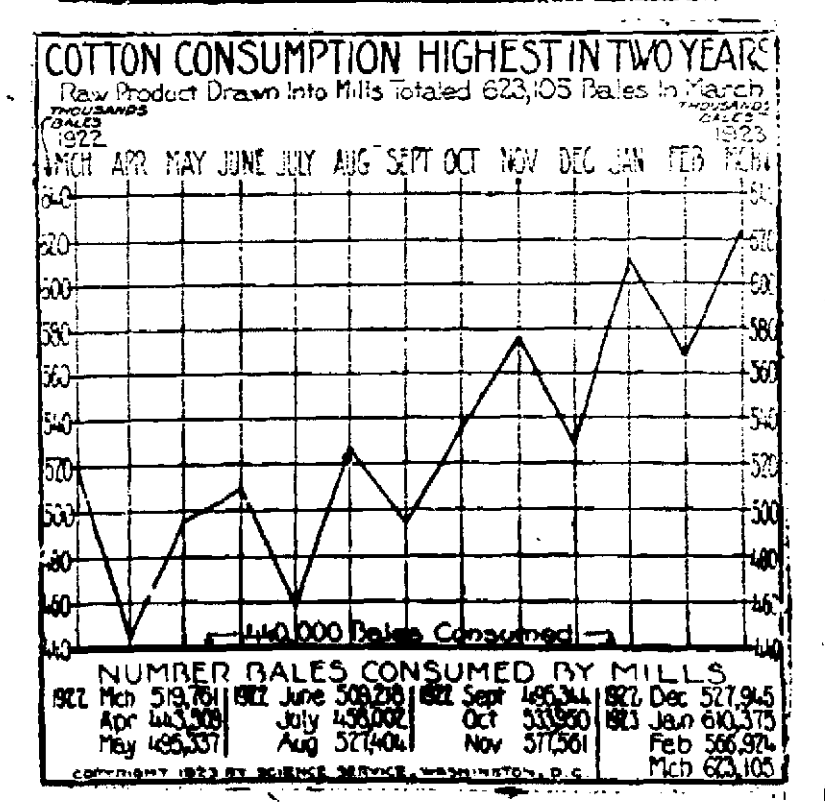

Fifth prize, to costume best liked by judges, to French peasant in handsome holiday attire, Mrs. Ralph Gregory.

After the awarding of the prizes the orchestra played the Marseillaise and the Star Spangled Banner, the assembly rising for both National anthems, although it must be confessed that neither the erstwhile Parisians nor Americans stood at "Attention."

During the evening Mrs. Daley served delicious refreshments, while the lemonade table was popular during the entire evening.

Now that the people of Kingston know just how delightful a Latin Quarter Fete is, the cry of Oliver Twist—"More," was heard on every hand. There was just one disappointment, and that was, that Trilby, the Laird, Little Billie and Taffy did not come to the Fete, but they'll be given a special invitation to the next one, for there will surely be a "next one," the gash was sewed up.

NEW LONG COATS ON STYLE SHEET

Three-Quarter Outer Garment
for Spring Wear Has No Flare; Full and Drapery.

ALL-OVER EMBROIDERY USED

Designs of Decoration Arranged in Captivating Manner—Interesting Fabrics in Linen—Plain and Fur Collars Features.

A spring coat, it would seem from the displays in the shops, can be pretty much anything you choose to make it. The fact is, asserts a fashion writer in the New York Times, that the separate coat is an important factor in the present styles. No hard and fast rules have been set down for its design. You can suit your coat to your figure, your personality and your demands just as certainly as you can accomplish the same end with your neck and gown.

There was a time, and not so long ago, when a coat could not be placed in the class of the beautiful. It was a heavy, cumbersome-looking thing that was designed chiefly for use. One waited always for a sight of the costume underneath before expecting to be confronted with the least claim to beautiful design. Now the coat is a part of the costume, often just as with all of the dictates of the modern styles.

The newest coats of three-quarter length are made of all-over embroidery. They are so beautiful that they make the amateur stop to wonder how they have been done. The real truth about them is that they are made up of solid masses of embroidery—that is, the handiwork of them are—and they form so decorative a wrap arrangement that they are bound to capture the attention and the fidelity of any woman at all interested in the art of dress. Just as we had about decided that handwork and embroidery had left the field of dress, back it pops in a handsomer expression than it has ever achieved before this since the days of the India shawl. Of course there are all sorts of imitations of these embroidered fabrics, and very handsome ones they are, too. They are done by those clever machines which vie with human fingers, and you will find the materials sold by the yard looking so colorful and gorgeous that they almost demand you to stop and purchase them.

Embroidery is Attractive. Some of the embroidery for these newer coats is done upon a foundation of satin. Again it uses a soft broadcloth for its beginnings. And at another time you will find it appearing upon the surface of a thickly pressed crepe. In fact, there seems no limit to what may be accomplished with this new idea in the way of making the outer wrap one of the most decorative parts of the costume.

While many of the collars are plain, there are also to be seen an astonishing number of those which are made of fur. Short-haired furs are used preferably, and the collars are made straight and folded so that they form, whether they be open or closed, flattering frames for the faces that are posed against them.

The little jacquettes are by no means passe. Very many of them are to be seen in connection with the newer spring clothes and not a few of them are worn as extra coats. They can be tied about the hips, forming them into blouse effects, or they can be allowed to hang straight, making cunning little box coats that are especially suitable for dressy sports wear. At Palm Beach any number of them have been made of the lighter pastel colorings and worn with white or gray or even au lait frocks. They are most interesting when done in this wise; and there is no doubt that women will find a great many uses for them as the spring season advances.

The little short coat makes it possible to change the appearance of one's costume without much trouble. One can have two or three of them in different colorings to wear with a certain dress or with a collection of dresses. It is not a difficult thing to make by one's self, for its cut is simple to accomplish and its making easy to achieve.

Don't imagine, from all this talk about shorter coats, that the long ones have disappeared. They are as prominent as ever and will be worn in large numbers, only they are not so new and so startling as the ones which have taken on shorter lengths.

Artful Creations. Long coats, indeed, give every evidence of being costumes all by themselves. They are redolent of much design and consistent making. Simple though they may seem, they are creations involving much art and labor. They are not to be considered lightly in any respect, for they are made up intricately and formed to show an astonishing amount of gracefulness and charm.

Along with the period styles and the great craze for 1850 frocks there has come a rage for a coat which involves these same principles. It is shaped and founded. It is full and draped. It is wide of sleeve and drooping of line. In fact it has all of the picture and graceful of line as any could be. The coat, indeed, is considered almost a dress in itself, for the frock underneath its folds becomes a secondary consideration—something which is in the nature of a background.

Of course, this new development in connection with coats puts a new responsibility upon the well-dressed woman. She must, almost of necessity, have two or three sorts of coats to accompany her various types of clothes. Since there is so great an element of design about the outer wraps they at once take on a character which places them in this class or that. And when they are worn with frocks of any opposing character they lose all style and flare and become nothing at all. The problem, then, of choosing a coat becomes a little intricate. But when you once realize how interesting the new line is, why, then you can't wait to begin your plans for your new coat expression.

The three-quarter coat is the newest. It is so new, indeed, that as yet scarcely any of them have been seen. Now, the three-quarter coat is straight of line. It has no flare whatsoever, no sign of a peplum, but its line descends quite simply to the knees or a little below that point.

On Lines Full and Drapery. Some of the three-quarter coats—they cannot be called jackets—are made on lines that are quite full and drape. They take their little hint and inspiration from the jacquettes of the winter and tie at one side at a point that marks a decidedly low waistline. They start out by looking very much as a suit coat might, that is, about the neck and sleeves. Then their surpluses line in front gather into a bunch at one side and are tied there with a rather wide bow of ribbon or of the coat's material. There is something decidedly picturesque about them. They get away from that hardness of outline which it is so hard for some women to accept and they manage gently to subdue any unusual width about the hips, adding the flaring bow with its long ends at just the place where it will do all the good in the world as far as trimming is concerned. It helps, too, in relieving the severity of line which does not seem to be at all a part of the season's style—at least for a coat of this type.

You will find these three-quarter coats making part of three-piece costumes and just as often you will find them, in silk or soft kasha or herringbone, made to accompany the dresses of soft crepe and chiffon. For when the dresses of the softer materials peep out beneath the coat for a space of ten to twelve inches, they are just that much to the softness of the appearance of the costume and the effect is entirely in accordance turesque charm which is characteristic of the dresses fashioned after the ideals of that period. It is a dignified-looking affair and can only be worn where things are very dressy. Some of the sleeves start out from the shoulder to be tight, but when they reach a space below the elbows they usually turn into extraordinarily flared cuffs. The materials of the longer coats are plainer than those which make up the shorter variety. They are satins and duvetines—anything that has that rich and sumptuous look about it—and they include the heavier varieties of satin.

GREATEST POWER IN WORLD

Organized Opinion Is the Lever Which Makes Possible All Movements for World's Uplifting.

Columbus discovered America, but Americus Vesputius described it and as a result the continent bears the name of the discoverer. M. S. Pittman of Michigan State Normal college, Ypsilanti, Mich., told the National Education association.

"Comenius, that great educator of the sixteenth century, put his thoughts into written form, but he lacked a suitable press agent, and in consequence education lost two centuries of possible progress," said Doctor Pittman. "Publicity is the trail-blazer which discovers and marks the paths along which civilization may march with safety. It is the agency by which an established civilization makes known its virtues and its blessings."

"The thesis, The pen is mightier than the sword, was once debatable, but not since the art of publicity has been so highly developed. Organized opinion is the world's greatest power, and publicity is the creator of public opinion. Educational publicity, then, is the trail-blazer, the light-giver, the radio, the opinion maker, the war machine of educational progress.—Exchange.

Drums of Skulls Used by Tibetans.

Drums, made out of the tops of skulls, over which is stretched human skin, are used to make "music" in various parts of Tibet. But skulls are not the only portion of their ancestors from which these fascinating people extract melody and rhythm. Many an intriguing tune is played on a native trumpet formed from a human thigh-bone drilled and bored and adapted to the production of sweet sound.

Whiskers' Champions

London's favorite pastime now is to play "beaver," the idea being for two contestants to cry "Beaver!" every time they see a man with whiskers. The player who sees the most whiskered man in a day wins a wager. These two San Francisco men, who claim the world's "whiskers' championship," are original Forty-niners, and between them they have more than 28 feet of whiskers. The man at the left has a beard that measures 11 feet 3 inches, while that of the man at the right is 17 feet long.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 2, 1923.

FIRST COST, $200,000,000.

After digesting the statement of Senator Lusk opposing the Smith water power bill, which provides for state ownership, the casual reader, for the time being at least, would be prompted to withhold support of the measure, which would mean an original expenditure by the state of more than $200,000,000, not counting subsequent costs that must be met. Quoting former State Engineer Frank M. Williams, an authority on the subject, Senator Lusk emphasized the state's tremendous obligation and called attention to the inevitable inefficiency of carrying out the provisions of such a measure, the management of this enormous undertaking to be placed in the hands of political appointees.

Senator Lusk referred to the bill adopted by the Republicans for the development of water power by private companies; the state to have absolute control in fixing charges to consumers and the right to take over the projects at any time. "But it is now proposed," said Senator Lusk, "to change this policy and go into public development, the first step to cost at least $200,000,000, the two sources being the Niagara river and the St. Lawrence river. To utilize the St. Lawrence it will be necessary to take over two developments now under way, one at Waddington and the other at Mesina, which can only be done by a commission who is to be appointed with sole authority to sit down and enter into an agreement with the owners of any property he may think is required, sweeping authority given to no other man in the state."

Citing the unlimited detail to be overcome, and always keeping in mind the cost, Senator Lusk said while money may be obtained at a cheaper rate of interest by the state than by private companies, that, in itself, is not a sound argument in favor of public ownership. "We have," said the senator, "the inevitable inefficiency and waste which go with a political organization attempting to handle a business project with political methods. In my opinion electricity can be furnished to the people cheaper by private companies than under public development with the waste and extravagance which invariably attach to the latter, particularly as regards electricity when equipment is continually being changed and improved by private companies which have found it necessary to employ the most skillful men available to bring about efficiency and economy in the operation of the plants."

CAN PRESIDENTS SAVE?

Opposition to Mrs. Stillman's demand for an increase of $50,000 a year on the ground that she was asked for more than the salary of the President of the United States brought forth the assertion of one of her lawyers that no President since Hayes has been asked to save money out of his salary. This is not true, according to reliable information, says the Springfield Republican, which adds:

Both Taft and Wilson are believed to have saved less than their salaries. For example, they must ordinarily have turned over to the government the White House, which in the case of Mr. Wilson was in the hands of Mrs. Wilson's family. The fact that Mrs. Wilson's family was not asked to save anything is a very modest annual salary for a President of the United States, in view of the style of living required.

While a majority of the people have no technical knowledge relative to state ownership of water power, when they stop to think that before the state can begin to do business, or start in that direction, it means an outlay of two hundred million dollars, the ordinary citizen may take a deep breath. The two hundred million is only a beginning.

after that comes the cost of transmission lines and all sorts of equipment. It sounds all right to talk about state ownership and the promise of cheaper heat, light and power, but that first wallop of two hundred million to get started is an awful lot. "White coal" may be the cheapest in the end but the "first cost" is surely an expensive luxury.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is it true they ever use cornucopias to fish with abroad?
2. What is the longest time any wild animal can live?
3. Do flies do any good?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. I had two goldfish, but one died and the other went out, though there is food left on the water all the time. The globe is about 5 feet from the floor and not far from the stove which is going most of the time. I got a third, but as soon as I put it in the globe it acted funny. What all's them?

For one thing food left floating and motion from the water and makes it unfit for respiration through the gills of the fish. Give only what they will eat at a feeding time. The globe may be too small, and the fish unable to get sufficient oxygen. Try giving the ailing fish a swim in a salt bath, proportions, 1/2 teaspoonful pure salt, 1/2 teaspoonful epsom salt to 1 gallon water. Put aquatic plants in the globe, to absorb carbonic acid gas and give out oxygen.

2. Kindly advise me when to replace rose clips that have started to take root.

Weather conditions rather than date should guide you. There should be no frost in the ground or likelihood of frost when young plants are set. Better keep them in pots or boxes in the house, making root, until weather is mild. An overcast day is good for transplanting as the young leaves will not be so likely to wilt.

3. Do any birds live underground? If you mean nest there, yes, kingfishers, also bank swallows and rough winged swallows, bore holes in sandy banks and feed their young there.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BOWNER

FAIRY QUEEN'S DANCE

"I haven't told you a story in ever so long," said Daddy, "about the Fairy-land people, and they are always so busy. But good news, gracious, never more!"

"It is all one can do to keep up with all the creatures who want their stories told and want to be introduced to the children they care so much about even if they don't see them very often."

"Sent Out Her Invitations."

"The animals like to have their stories told, the birds like to have theirs told, too."

"Yes, it is hard to begin to keep up with all the stories that really should be told."

"And the animals and the birds, the fairies and the elves, the butterflies and the sea creatures—all are doing such interesting things all the time."

"But tonight I mustn't forget to tell you about the Fairy Queen's latest ball in Fairyland for it was a magnificent affair and every one was there decked in their very best."

"The Fairy Queen sent out her invitations a week in advance. You may have noticed that not long ago on a lovely sunny day, which happened also to be quite windy, that many of the leaves were blowing about."

"Well, this time the Fairy Queen sent out her invitations written upon the leaves in the Fairyland Leaf Writing which all the Fairyland creatures know."

"Of course, if you had tried to catch one of those leaves you couldn't have done so for the Breeze Brothers saw that the leaves bearing invitations all went along to their right addresses."

"Sometimes they blew them this way and that, but they all saw that they reached the right places at last."

"And every single Fairy and Elf and Gnome—every one received an invitation which read as follows:

The Fairy Queen is to give a dance. Come and with us early please! It will be one week from tonight. Just as the clocks are striking midnight! We want you and every one. To help us make it the best of fun. Come along—don't bother to write! Remember next week as the clocks strike midnight!"

"Well, every one was on hand, or perhaps one should say on foot. And the costumes were very lovely."

"The Fairy Queen wore a robe of silver and white which looked so lovely."

"Old Witty Witch wore a gorgeous scarlet costume and her best tall scarlet hat and a scarlet shawl trimmed with golden lace."

"Old Mr. Giant wore a suit of purple velvet trimmed with yellow flowers. It was very handsome."

"Fairy Yvonne wore a dress of coral pink and through her hair she had wound a long, long string of coral beads."

"Fairy Princess Twilight-Bell wore a gown of sapphire blue with sparkles decorating it."

"Fairy Princess Joy wore an exquisite robe of golden yellow and around her head she wore a crown of golden leaves. She carried a wand of gold too."

"Billie Brownie wore a brown velvet suit and a magnificent brown silk tie, and Bonnie Brownie wore the same."

"Peter Gnome was in an orange suit from which dangled little silver bells, and Elfin Elf wore pale green and silver."

"Truly, you never heard of such lovely costumes as were worn that night in Fairyland. And every little creature had made his or her own costume."

"For the Fairy-land people know how to make the loveliest of things and then, too, they know how to wear their magic wands at just the right time."

"And as for fun!"

"Well, they danced and they danced and Fairy Yvonne, of course, led the Fairyland orchestra, though at times one of the other fairies would take her place as she could dance too."

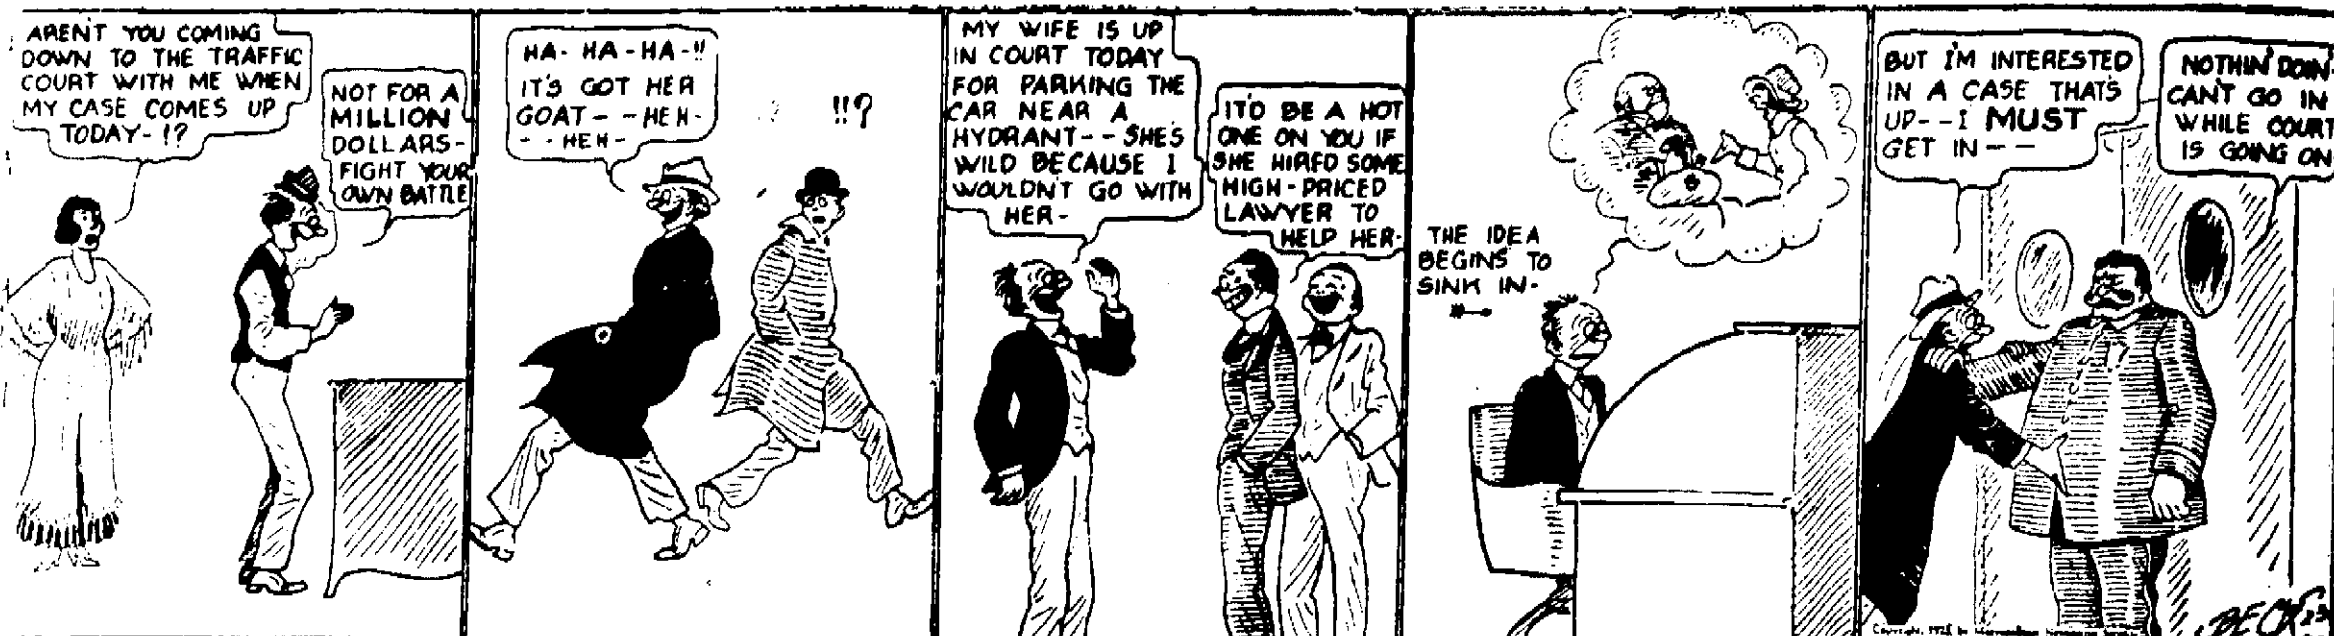

"And before the party was over, just as daylight was beginning to creep along, saying:

"Can't I get up now?"—the Fairy-land people all gathered in an enormous ring around the Fairy Queen and sang this song:

"We love you, we love you, our dear Fairy Queen. You're the sweetest Fairy we've ever seen!"

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

These boxes are, indeed, narrow and confined, but they are not blessed with children. Every branch the tree puts out lays its open more to the storm and tempest of life. It lays its open also to the light and the sunshine, and to the stinging and the making birds. A endless life in a tree without branches, a house without windows—John Burroughs.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A nice breakfast dish which is wholesome and easy to prepare is:

Baked Mackerel.—Soak the salt mackerel in cold water, fish side down, over night. Drain and place in a baking pan, add a few tablespoons of water and when boiling hot pour over a cupful of cream. Bake twenty to thirty minutes, depending upon the weight of the fish. Serve hot with potatoes. This makes a fine luncheon dish served with mashed or creamed potatoes.

A Simple Meat Loaf.—Take one pound of round of steak and one pound of fresh pork with some fat; put both through the meat grinder, add a half cupful of rolled oats, a small onion chopped, two level teaspoons of salt, a half teaspoonful of pepper, one cupful of strained cooked tomatoes, a beaten egg; roll into a loaf and place in a well-greased baking pan; baste with a little water until the juices of the meat furnish the moisture. Bake often during the hour's baking.

Peach Cake Pudding.—Line the bottom of a pudding dish with thick slices of sponge cake soaked in peach juice from canned peaches. Fill the dish with the peaches, cover with a meringue, using the white of an egg and a tablespoonful of sugar. Brown in a slow oven.

Fruit Salad.—Remove the skin from a banana, scrape and cut in quarters lengthwise, then cut in thirds crosswise and roll in chopped peanuts. Peel oranges, strip out the centers and insert a piece of banana through each slice. Arrange on a bed of lettuce and serve with French dressing.

Maple Custards. Beat five eggs until foamy, add three-fourths of a cupful of crushed maple sugar, a saltspoonful of salt, and three cupfuls of scalded and cooled milk. Strain into small custard cups, set into a pan of hot water, and bake until firm in the center. Serve with spice cakes. This makes an excellent dessert.

Travels of the Stork.

It has been a long time since the birds migrate from Europe to South Africa for the winter. A number of marked storks have been captured at various points in South Africa and last spring one was captured near Johannesburg. It had come originally from Hungary and was apparently on its homeward journey from South Africa with four companions. This incident is regarded as showing that the storks in passing between Europe and Africa avoid crossing the Mediterranean sea, taking by preference the longer journey by land around its eastern end. The question yet remains whether the storks breed during their winter visit to Africa.—Washington Star.

Ordering by Sample.

A young woman entered a telegraph office in an Ohio town and asked the operator if his line made connection with Chicago. On being answered in the affirmative, the young woman opened her bag, took out a bunch of samples and went to writing. After some difficulty she squeezed her thoughts into ten words and approached the sending table. She laid down the written blank, two samples, one marked "A" and the other "B," together with the sum of 25 cents. The message read: "Sellum and Sellum, Chicago. Send express, five yards sample 'A' and six yards 'B.'"

His First Pun.

We are told that Sir W. S. Gilbert, who wrote "Hinode," the "Mikado," and many other delightful operettas, was a humorist from the cradle. Unfortunately, most of his early wit-cisms have been lost, but one at least, perpetrated at the age of four, is still extant. A young aunt of his had an apron in which several colors appeared, and young Gilbert had heard it spoken of as "party-colored." The aunt happened to wear the apron on some gala occasion, when the future author said to her: "I suppose you are wearing a party-colored apron because you have come to the party."—Youth's Companion.

THIS safe deposit box was rented to a man who had a policy, the deed for a lot and 6-room home, two fire insurance policies and the baby's first shoes. The box was plenty large at first. But now it is bulging with the things it had before and a fat block of $500 bonds besides—$4,000 worth.

The man who rents the box determined six years ago to get ahead by persistent, methodical accumulation and investment. He succeeded; he is going ahead further; in another year he will need a larger box. He is working for an INDEPENDENT INCOME.

You can fill a safe deposit box, too, just as he did. By investing no more than $50 a month in sound bonds through the Rollins Cumulative Investment System you can own your first bond, free and clear, in ten months. CITY ZONING IS UP ONCE MORE Alderman Beichert introduced Resolution Calling for Appointment of Committee to Investigate Newburgh's Plan of City Zoning—Other Matters Before Common Council.

The question of city zoning came up again Tuesday evening at the regular monthly session of the common council when Alderman Beichert of the Second ward introduced a resolution asking for the appointment of a committee of three from the council to act with Mayor Crane and Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill to investigate Newburgh's plan of city zoning.

The alderman from the Second ward said that he understood the plan adopted in Newburgh had cost that city practically nothing, and that he believed it would be a good idea for Kingston to ascertain what plan Newburgh had adopted. City zoning was an important question that had been under consideration here for some time.

President Dittie appointed Aldermen Beichert, Williams and Buchholz as the council committee.

Some Assessment Errors.

Corporation Counsel Gill and City Assessor Johnston submitted a report on the complaint of Peter Herb that he had been assessed for a house at 101-107 Chilton avenue, before the house had been completed. The report stated that instead of Mr. Herb being assessed $1,800 he should only have been assessed $200 for the grounds, a garage and the foundations of the house under construction, and that he should be compensated for the amount he had been over-assessed. The report was adopted.

The Kingston Fair Grounds was also granted a refund of $65.20 which they had been assessed on buildings on their property which were owned by the state of New York.

Foxhall Avenue Coal Yard.

Alderman Kullmann at the request of the West Shore railroad introduced a resolution that permission be granted the railroad to construct a switch or siding across Foxhall avenue, Manor avenue and Cornell street, for J. A. Phelan who is planning to open a coal yard on Foxhall avenue. In October of 1921, the council granted permission to construct this switch but omitted in the original resolution the words "Manor avenue and Cornell street."

The Kullmann resolution amended the original resolution by introducing those words.

Amos Van Etten of the railroad committee stated that the present resolution was intended to straighten the matter out.

The railroad committee were given a recess of five minutes to consider the matter and reported favorably.

The resolution was then adopted. The railroad committee also reported in favor of the city taking steps to condemn what land was needed to consolidate Cornell street, Manor avenue and Foxhall avenue crossing of the West Shore, and by doing so eliminate the extra crossing at the junction of the three streets making but one crossing at that point. This plan had been approved by the public service commission.

Memorial Day Amusements.

The resolution adopted by Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, and Tappan Camp of Veterans, that the common council go on record as opposing any sort of amusement being held in Kingston the morning of Memorial Day was read.

The aldermen after some discussion returned the request to the committee from the legion with the request that certain hours be specified and report back at the meeting May 15, when the council would take some action.

Wants War Data.

Judge A. T. Clearwater, city historian, sent in a communication asking the aldermen to assist in securing data necessary to complete the city's records of work accomplished during the World War. He desired a photograph of every man who served in the war; a statement of the extent of service; copies of any letters they had written home or for publication; a statement as to any honors that had been bestowed by the government; also the names of those who had subscribed for Liberty Loans; those who were members of the International Red Cross and the local Red Cross; and the names of those who had performed service of any sort in support of national defense.

The communication was referred to the council as a committee of the whole.

Manor Avenue Sewer.

The board of public works reported the completion of the Manor avenue sewer at a total cost of $2,723.51, of which amount the city paid $882.38, and property owners $2,047.13. The council adopted a resolution that 75 per cent of the cost be assessed against the properties benefited by the improvement.

Much Street Work.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper boards or committees for action:

Alderman Keating—That Yeomans street, East Union street and Sycamore street be repaired.

Alderman Beichert—That property owners on block bounded by Foxhall avenue and Manor avenue be instructed to remove underbrush at once; that police signal box be installed in vicinity of O'Neil street and Foxhall avenue.

That board of public works repair Bruyn avenue, between O'Neil and Downs streets, and that this street, between the streets named, be set aside for the purpose of roller skating for children in that vicinity three or four afternoons and evenings of each week as the board may direct.

That catch basin be placed at the corner of Wiltwyck avenue and O'Neil street.

That railroad committee confer with New York Central with regard to better lighting facilities on Broadway at once.

That fire hydrant now situated in driveway of Kingston Oil Company on Foxhall avenue be moved east or west so as to clear driveway.

That water mains be placed through Progress street as several new dwellings are awaiting construction there.

That water mains be extended from Manor avenue through Manor Place.

That board of public works take such action as to eliminate deep excavation adjacent to roadway on Manor Place.

That Manor avenue be repaired as the street is in a dangerous condition due to sewer excavations made last fall.

That Wiltwyck avenue be top-dressed and rolled.

That petition in regard to an error in assessment on assessment roll on property of Harry E. Fields on Foxhall avenue have necessary adjustment.

Alderman Mann—That board of public works topdress and roll Spruce street, also lower end of German street; and that board notice condition of Hunter street which also needs topdressing and rolling.

That board of public works take some action and place lights on Abel street, between Warts and Ravine streets, as there are a good many stores in that locality.

Alderman Williams—That Delaware avenue be repaired; that Murray street be repaired; that an arch be placed on Hasbrouck avenue at foot of Waters Lane in place of present incandescent light.

Alderman Martin—That lighting committee take action at once in relation to lighting clothes installed on ornamental poles along North Front street and Washington avenue that were eliminated during war.

That holes in brick pavement on North Front street be repaired.

That arch light be placed on Lucas avenue, between Green street and Washington avenue, and incandescent light now there be removed.

That board of public works take necessary action to have the Tannery brook cleaned thoroughly and retaining walls strengthened between Lindenman avenue and Converse street.

Alderman Ryan—That house numbers on South Wall street be changed as some house holders have same number which causes confusion in receiving mail.

Alderman Joe—That St. Mary's street be repaired; and that East Pierpont street be topdressed and rolled.

All Aldermen Present.

All of the aldermen were present at the session. C. Ray Everett, who was appointed in place of Dr. Behrens, resumed, attended the first session of the council Tuesday evening.

"A JAPANESE WEDDING"

At Clinton Avenue M. E. Church May 9.

Under the auspices of the Standard Bearer Society of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church there will be a pantomime entitled, "A Japanese Wedding," and also a Japanese Tea on Wednesday evening, May 9, at 8 o'clock. Real Japanese rice cakes will be served to the public in connection with the social. The pantomime will be the first of its kind given in this city. In most countries a wedding is a joy and usually looked forward to with blissful anticipation by the bride to be, but this is not the case in Japan. Instead of rejoicing she gives herself over to weeping and spends several days preceding the wedding in tears. The pantomime consists of seven scenes, as follows:

I. The Espousal.—Illustrates the "go-between" presenting the gifts to the bride's father and also the signing of the betrothal contract.

II. The preparing of the bride.—Shows the bride completing her toilet, and leaving the house of her childhood.

III. Bringing home the bride.—In this the bride is shown alighting from the sedan and is led, still closely veiled, to the room where the bridegroom awaits her. She is presented to her future father-in-law by the "go-between" who in his do her veil. This she resists with true oriental coquetry.

In Scene V the bride's only men friend of the bridegroom and his father are seen at the wedding breakfast.

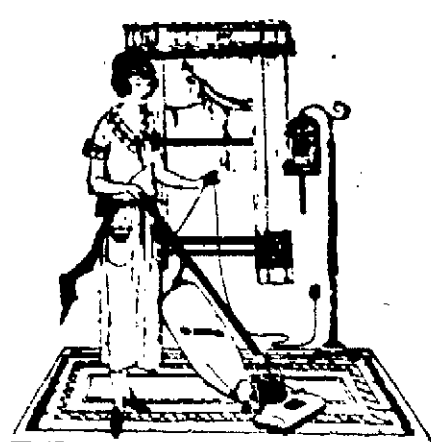

Scene VI the bride is viewed by the wedding guests.

Scene VII the bride and groom repair to the room where burn the eternal fires before the tablets of the bridegroom's ancestors. They prostrate themselves three times before these tablets, and then the bride, gathering up her tunic, passes among the assembled friends and relatives, all of whom throw in cash. Presenting herself before her lord, she casts the money at his feet; he raises the veil, beholding her face for the first time, and the pair are duly wedded.

Meteors by Millions.
It has been calculated that not less than 20,000,000 meteors, each large enough to be visible as a "shooting star," enter our atmosphere daily.

FIRST K. H. S. GAME IS A VICTORY

With Corregan Pitching Good Ball, Locals Beat Poughkeepsie 4-3. Howard Bats in Winning Run.

Act One in the play entitled "The 1923 Baseball Season of K. H. S." was a glorious thriller for the K. H. S. fans. The scene of action was Eastman Oval at Poughkeepsie, and the center of action a close and exciting game between the Kingston clubs of Poughkeepsie and Kingston high schools. Nor did they stand alone in their contest. A motley crowd was there, and they were not all from the Bridge City. A mob from Kingston was on deck to see their team take the first game; some rode down in cars, others went by train, some got there by bicycle, and still others hoofed it all the way. There was a great display of school spirit on both sides, appropriate demonstrations being made before, during and after the game. The side-lines were large as the mayor of Poughkeepsie took the pitcher's box and threw over the first ball, and the game was on. For three innings the teams battled on even terms, neither scoring, although several hits were made. In the fourth each got one run. In the fifth, Kingston scored one and Poughkeepsie retaliated with two. Things looked bright for Poughkeepsie then, but they had not been planning for one "Mike" Howard of Kingston. With two men on bases and two men out, Howard was called upon to do the hero stuff, and so he did. With a bang that made the bat crack, Mike sent the ball sharply to left field, making a single and scoring the two men. That was the end of the scoring for the day, although at several other times, it looked as though the Poughkeepsie fellows would tie the score.

Bob Corregan made his debut as the official pitcher for the locals and established a good record. Five hits and four walks are charged against him, while he can lay claim to striking out eight and assisting in five other put-outs. But it was not alone the work of the pitcher, for he was backed up every minute of play by every other man on the team. The team as a whole showed some snappy work. They will need considerable polishing up before they meet another team, but the work of Coach Perry will surely bring good results if the players give him their support.

The first three innings of Tuesday's game netted no runs for either team. Kingston was at bat first. In the fourth, McLane was hit by the pitcher and took first, but was forced out at second by Schmidt. Ummerly hit to shortstop and was tagged out at first, while Schmidt advanced to second. Schmidt stole third. Corregan singled to right center, scoring Schmidt. Hauser grounded out to Pashin. Bodensteln was the first man up for Poughkeepsie, and Bob Corregan took his measure with three unimpaired beauties over the plate. Hill made first on an error by Hauser. Hill stole second and made third on a passed ball. A water hit, and while he was being tagged out on the squeeze play following, Hill ran home. Macabee struck out. In the fifth inning, Howard was given first with the compliments of Reed. Messenger singled left field. Howard resting on second, Howard was forced out at third when Voght grounded to short. Whiston struck out. McLane singled to left field and Messenger trotted over the fourth base. When Poughkeepsie took their places again, Swenson started things off with a nice little single to left field. Reed fell victim to the charms of Corregan's pitching, and resumed his place on the bench without a hit. Shorter made first on a fly to left field. Corregan weakened and Pashin got a base on balls. Snyder hunted, and Corregan's bad throw to first let Swenson and Shorter make home. Bob got control of himself and struck out his next man, Bodensteln. Hill fled out to McLane. The crucial sixth had come. Reed flattered Schmidt with a walk. Ummerly fled out to Awater. Corregan grounded to Pashin and made first on the latter's error. Hauser sacrificed to short and both men advanced one base. Then things looked bright for Kingston. Poughkeepsie fans were getting nervous, and Kingston followers were hoping strongly. Howard took his place in the plate, looked over Reed's style of pitching for that inning. Someone yelled "What d'ya say, Abe," and away went a sharp one out past Awater and Howard held down first while he watched Schmidt and Corregan cross the plate for the tying and winning runs. Messenger was put out at first and the scoring was ended for that afternoon. The game ended about 7:15, and the Kingston people started back to bring the news of the victory.

THE FAN AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

In the five games that the Colonials have played so far this season they have scored 28 runs to their opponents' 6.

Not a bad record for this time of the year.

One of the things that has surprised fans in this city is the fact the Colonials are engaging in such close contests. In fact all of the games played so far, with the exception of the game with the Shamrock A. C., have been pitching duels.

With the exception of the game mentioned above neither the Colonials or their opponents have scored more than four runs in any one game.

A glance at the scores in the International League and the Eastern League would lead one to the conclusion that the Hudson Valley semipro pitchers are in much better shape than those pitchers who are members of organized baseball.

In these leagues it is no unusual thing for one team or both teams in a game to score ten runs or more.

Benny Borgman says that at this stage of the game the Colonial team looks much better than the Boston team of the National League.

Benny ought to know as he spent considerable time practicing with this big league team.

Another feat which has caused a great deal of comment was that up to Saturday's game the Colonials had managed to play through without committing an error.

McCue seemed to have a little bad baseball in his system on Saturday and very naturally he had to get it out in some way.

Toilet Specialist.

Miss C. E. Schaaf the well-known Toilet Goods Specialist here this week will give free massage by appointment and demonstrate the famous Cara Nome and Juneve toilet requisites.

Every woman is keenly interested in the subject of retaining her good looks, but far too few women appreciate what the term "good looks" really implies. So many make the mistake of thinking that it is primarily a matter of the features. Of course, the features do play a prominent part. A finely shaped nose, well-formed ears, well-placed eyes, and well-rounded, yet firm, mouth and chin are highly to be desired, but these alone do not give the face distinction.

The real chief characteristic of good looks, or personal beauty is far more subtle. It lies in the skin. For the skin can make or mar the most perfect features and a beautiful skin will lend distinction to the plainest features.

The proper care of a woman's skin is a subject too little understood. Some women do not appreciate its importance at all, while others, though realizing the charm of a beautiful skin do not know how to retain the clear texture, the firmness and the rosy bloom of youth. They are fearful of self treatment, and shun all toilet preparations designed to aid the skin for fear of encountering ones which might be harmful.

And probably most women who give any thought to their personal beauty, and few do not, are apt to associate the retaining of a beautiful skin with the necessity of frequent visits to the so-called Beauty Shops found in so many metropolitan centers.

Any woman, as a matter of fact, may possess a beautiful skin who will take the time and pains to care for her skin systematically, in logical fashion, and who will use only preparations which she can be certain are harmless and beneficial.

To outline easy self-treatment, to demonstrate by actual free massage in the home and explain the characteristics and properties of the leading line of toilet preparations used by women of refinement today is the purpose of the visit here this week of Miss Schaaf, the well-known Toilet Goods Specialist of Boston.

She has been engaged specially for this purpose by McBride Drug Stores Inc., proprietors of the local Rexall Store. Miss Schaaf who is not only well versed in all the aids to beauty, but conversant also with the manufacture of the preparations she specializes in, will give you free massage in the home to any Kingston lady making an appointment for this with the Rexall stores. She will demonstrate the uses and properties of different facial creams and other toilet requisites famous to-day under the well known names of Cara Nome and Jontee, such as creams, toilet waters, face powders, etc.

Miss Schaaf's services are absolutely free. She is herself a woman of fine personal appearance and charm, an authority in her subject and comes to Kingston with very strong recommendation from other towns and cities where she has given similar demonstrations.

In addition to individual massage treatment, Miss Schaaf has made a specialty of appearing before women's clubs and is open for a limited number of engagements while here. We understand she will be here for only a single week so this brief word of introduction should be sufficient suggestion to those women

LIVING TISSUES ARE PUT UNDER THE MICROSCOPE

Scientist Perfects Apparatus Making it Possible to Study Human Cells.

An apparatus for the improved study of living tissue which is expected, may lead to important discoveries in the treatment of bacterial diseases, was announced at Northwestern University, Chicago, by Professor C. E. Tharaldsen, of the department of zoology.

The instrument, it is said, will dissect living human tissue and increase the means of observing its functions. Professor Tharaldsen describes his microdissection apparatus as follows: "A small or large amount of tissue the size does not matter is cut from the human body. In the tissue are the living cells."

Then the tissue is fastened on the stage of the microscope of my apparatus. It is on the under side of the microscope lens and has been soaked in a nutrient solution to preserve life. The solution is suspended in a drop from the under side of the lens.

Beneath the tissue there are tiny needles pointed upward and small hollow glass pipes.

Living cells or parts of them are isolated from the rest of the structure by a gradual breaking down process through use of the needles. Such a process and its effects have not before been observed.

The hollow tubes are used to apply chemicals to the living cells and the remainder of the tissue.

Chemicals can be injected directly into the protoplasm of these cells and the effect can be studied through the microscope.

Studies in the past have largely been confined to the observation of dead and fixed tissues, but in the last fifteen years there have been repeated attempts to dissect the living human protoplasm and to develop study under conditions of complete dissection. This our little machine renders wholly possible and practical.

WANT ALL EGGS STAMPED

British Housewives Ask Protection Against Masquerading Product

Every egg sold in England will be stamped with the country of origin if the plans of various housewives' organizations to put such a bill through parliament are successful.

Much interest has been aroused in London recently by the declaration of the National Poultry Council that only about 10 per cent of the eggs sold as new-laid eggs come from the provinces of England. It has been shown that huge quantities of eggs shipped into England every year from Holland, China and Egypt are mixed with other eggs and sold as native eggs.

Because the foreign eggs are of a better color and larger than English eggs, it is said the retailers are able to sell them more readily.

Considers Use of Seaplanes in Blockade.

By Telegram to The Freeman New York May 2—The feasibility of suppressing the operations of the whiskey armada off Sandy Hook with a patrol seaplanes augmented by speed boats and efficient land forces will be officially tested Thursday night when Palmer Canfield, federal prohibition director, flies the rum fleet in an airplane. He will make the flight in a machine cord with my plan to establish the

From Miller Field New Dorp Staten Island. The trip has been sanctioned by Major Kenneth P. Littauer, commandant of the Twenty-seventh Division Air Service Second Corp area at Miller Field.

Prior to taking off for his second official visit to the armada that is supplying thirsty America with a wide variety of intoxicating beverages, Mr. Canfield will make a thorough inspection of Miller Field with an idea of establishing there the seaplanes with which he hopes to establish an air patrol over the fleet. "Mr. Haynes, the national prohibition commissioner is heartily in accord with my plan to establish the seaplane patrol," the dry chief said. "I personally believe that a reverse opinion will be given as to possibility of utilizing the navy to kill off the growing menace of rum fleet. It is my conviction that a dozen additional fast boats quickly attain the desired working both day and night. A fleet of speedy vessels soon will be able to put up such an effective blockade that small boats would dare venture out for contraband cargoes."

Football Player's Luck

More than one professional football player has superstitions regarding the costume which he wears. To try the "kicker of dressing" to put a boot on the wrong foot is generally looked upon as a bad omen, but to break a boot lace is an omen of defeat whilst to wear borrowed boots—or, indeed, an borrowed article of clothing—on the field is held to be a coming disaster. Believers in such signs and portents counter scepticism by referring to the story of a well known player who fell and broke his leg. A fortnight later another member of the same team had a similar misfortune. It was found that both had worn the same pair of borrowed boots. The committee burned the offending footwear, and there were no more accidents.

Hermine Schwed, which will take place at the High School Auditorium this evening, will afford an opportunity to everyone to learn much about Socialism and the problems of its growth through the "Parlor Socialists" who have been responsible for the adoption of many false and items which are proving troublesome to American men and women in their everyday relations to each other.

The "upheld" variety of Socialist is "upheld" in many quarters as an example of what "highbrows" are thinking and doing to "uplift" the rest of the universe. Miss Schwed has had experience with them but the result of such experience was first the writing of a book on "The Conversion of a Parlor Socialist" which was followed by her lecture on the same subject. Miss Schwed is ready to answer questions on the subject of her lecture and here experience on the lecture platform shows she is not afraid of being heckled.

In line with its policy of doing something practical which the public wants, The Junior League secured Miss Schwed to come to Kingston to deliver her lecture which will be free of any charge. The interest in "Parlor Socialists" and their propaganda and in the conversion of Miss Schwed to the normal ideas of Americanism undoubtedly will be shown by a large attendance at her lecture, which will begin at eight o'clock. Miss Schwed will be introduced by the Rev. Dr. P. B. Seelye.

Cider Too Hard for Isaac.

Isaac Barker, 59 years old, of New Paris, took aboard too much hard cider and as a result was placed under arrest on a charge of intoxication. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace, Barnes of New Paris and given a thirty day vacation at the county jail.

"Y" BANQUET AND ANNUAL MEETING

Broiled Chicken, Made by Cornwall Military Band and Address by Mr. Phillips Expected to Draw a Crowd.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association has always been of considerable interest and this year promises to be even better than ever. The banquet will begin at 6:30 o'clock on Monday evening, May 14, with broiled chicken as one of the principal items on the menu. The Women's Assistants will have charge of this part of the program and all are assured of a bountiful meal.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. are anticipating a one hundred percent attendance of all those who are in the city on that night. This is the one occasion when the pastors of the city, the directors and trustees of the Y. M. C. A. can enjoy a pleasant evening together in the interests of a Christian organization.
Through the president of the Young Men's Christian Association an invitation is extended to the newly elected directors of the Y. W. C. A. to be present. A special table will be reserved for the Bowling League of the past season and their part in the activities of the evening will help make the occasion attractive.

The business of the evening will be the election of five directors, report of General Secretary M. S. Safford and a short talk by him on the Church and the Association.

I. H. Meredith who is a soloist and a leader of music will have charge of the musical program. Mr.
Meredith is well known in Kingston and many of his friends will be glad to see him here again. He is of the firm of Meredith and Teller of New York city.

The New York State Military Academy band of Cornwall will be one of the big features of the evening program. The band was here in Kingston some time ago and attracted a great deal of attention.
Captain Corda is a very capable leader and word was received from the school that they were anticipating with much pleasure their trip to Kingston.

The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. Harold Cook Phillips of Mount Vernon, N. Y. Mr. Phillips is a young man of strong personality and an exceptionally striking speaker. His address will be one that will be appreciated by all.

The banquet will be held in the Gymnasium and tickets will be sold to the seating capacity. Advance plates are being reserved and it is expected that the returns will be early in order that proper arrangements can be made for a most successful evening.

ANTI-KLAN RIOT IN BOUND BROOK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Bound Brook, N. J., May 2.—Quiet after one of the most exciting nights in the city's history—a night of fighting and anti-Ku Klux Klan rioting in which many persons were injured and the police rendered almost powerless.

For hours—from 8 o'clock last evening until 2 o'clock this morning —a mob of upwards of 500 persons surrounded the Pillar of Fire Church, dating one hundred Holy Rollers, who had been listening to a Klan speaker to come forth and now again storming the edifice.
Time after time they were beaten off.

The imprisoned churchgoers were rescued by state troops and local police and moved from the church in three large vans.
The siege was the result of indis-cussion aroused by advertisements that a branch of the Klan would be organized at last night's meeting.

Shortly after the Klan speaker began addressing his audience, a crowd assembled and stormed the church.
A general fight resulted.

Flies, chairs and other weapons were used. Finally the mob was forced out of the church. After this clash they made several ineffectual attempts to invade the edifice. Many of those inside took refuge on the second floor.

Glasses were hurled through windows. The church doors were damaged by brickbats.

Many persons on both sides were bruised in the fighting.

HURT BY BURSTING FUNGUS

Explosive Puffball Cause of Somewhat Unusual Accident at Valenciennes, French City.

At Valenciennes, France, two people have been rendered so ill by the bursting of a giant fungus that medical aid was required. The fungus was a huge puffball (Calvatia), a species which is often seen, but larger than a man's head. The fungus which was growing in the waistband of a workman's coat suddenly burst open releasing countless numbers of spores. An idea of the vast quantities of spores produced by these puffballs may be gathered from the fact that one specimen examined at the Birmingham university, England, was calculated to have produced no less than 2,000,000,000,000.
Many puffballs release their spores through a small opening at the top, but the Calvatia splits right open more or less suddenly. The spores of these fungi have an intensely irritating effect on the lining of the nose and throat and it can be believed that the sudden bursting of a large Calvatia in a small apartment would have most unpleasant effects.

Fortunately, we now learn, the spores of puffballs were used in place of snuff, so that a small pinch would bring on the most violent sneezing.
The Calvatia often turns up in most unexpected places and will grow where there is any damp material like rotting wood or suitable soil and moss.—

PLAYGOER SOUNDS A WARNING

Like a Great Many of Us, He Is Tired of Stage Scene That Has Been Overdone.

I'm just like you, I'm getting fed up on all these shadowed-the-shadows-the-dark plays. You know the stage blots out there's a lamp—and when the lights flash on again, the old miser— Yes, that's it. And then we have to guess who fired the shot.

I always go at the thing logically and analytically. The miser, I presume, has been shot. Then I proceed:
who shot him? But that leaves me with the problem: who is who? So I re-examine and, to throw new light on the thing, restate the whole problem: was he shot by whom? Or is it who? And who is who? But that's the same "who is who" I had before.
Or whom? No, no; whom was it shot who by?

And at that stage I always give up cold rationalization and settle back to wait till the play's over. By this time I don't much care who killed the ghostly miser anyway. Nor does anyone else. And yet for almost three solid hours, they continue.

But, as I say, I'm fed up. And the next time I give fair warning—the very next time they provoke me by that stunt of turning out the lights at the critical moment, they're never going to fool me who shot the old miser. I'm going to shoot him myself.
—G. R. in Life

Needless to Say.

I had been married but a short time and was keeping house in a summer town when the minister called early one evening.

I had been away from home for a few days and had neglected to dust the house upon my return. As it was almost dark when my caller arrived, I hoped he would leave before it became necessary to turn on the lights.
But as it grew darker and darker, until finally we could scarcely distinguish any article in the room, I excused the darkness by saying the connection had not been made in that room.

Just as the minister declared he must be going my husband returned unexpectedly from town, and, turning on the light as he entered the room, exclaimed, "Why all the darkness?"

That minister never saw me among his congregation after that.—Chicago

this was refused by the electors, who elected the Pasha.

First Words Sent by Wireless.

On Sunday, February 15, 1890, Dr.
Alexander Graham Bell received the first words ever spoken over a wireless phone. The words spoken and received were heralded by a flash of light through his laboratory window.
Then he distinctly heard, he stated,
"Mr. Bell, Mr. Bell. If you hear me, come to the window and wave your hat." The man who spoke these words was Charles Sumner Tainter. He was on the top of the Franklin school Washington. Mr. Bell was in his laboratory. The instrument devised by Dr. Bell, by which for the first time in history words were transmitted beyond the power of the human voice and without the use of wires, might have been called a light phone.

Swim Not, Drown Not.

Many suffering men never learn to swim, because they believe that when they are born fate has already decided how and when they shall die. The reasoning may be fallacious, but it is better than that of the good Muham-medan and Hindu families in Kashmir who for many generations have taught their children that swimming is an ungentlemanly art. The elder reason, says the National Geographic Magazine, something like this: "Aristocratic children should not learn to swim, for if they learn they will often go into the water. Those who go often into the water run a greater risk of being drowned than those who do not, knowing how to swim, keep out."

Gyroscopes

Experiments with an automatically directed by wireless control, have been made with complete success at Ville Savoy, near Paris.
The airplane had been made almost completely automatic, a control button on the ground directing it by wireless to ascend, descend and turn stability, which is automatic, was controlled by gyroscopes, connected with auxiliary motors. In landing the machine, when about 10 feet above the ground, righted itself and automatically shut off the motor.
The motor again is automatically started, and the plane taxied along the ground to its hangar. No human hand touched it during the flight.
